FROM THE PRESIDENT'S CARRIAGE

The weather has been lovely, cool nights and warm days. (If only I didn't have to work) Another month has gone by and this month we are looking forward to Camping at Blowing Rock. I am hoping that the price of hay will come down this year as the weather has been perfect and we all need a break from high prices. Hope to see you at Blowing Rock.

"Keep your hooves on the ground."

WWDC GENERAL MEETING

APRIL 27, 2008 SAGEBRUSH, CLEMMONS

We had a great turnout with 18 people. Faith opened the meeting at 6:00pm, the megaphone gift to the club did not seem to be working, (it did later on when given to Hayden to try). Congratulations were given to Nancy Faller & her "Team Faller" for their win at the Southern Pines CDE. See story in previous Newsletter.

OLD Business: Tommy said the Mocksville Winery we talked about for our Christmas party was going to cost $50.00 per hour and would only accommodate 20 people! Needless to say Tommy will be looking for someplace else for our party.

Faith said we cannot get an insurance quote until 30 days prior to it's expiration, she and Tommy will work on that. Insurance is due May.

I have not had any luck contacting decal manufacturers about quotes for decals to put on mugs, to sell and use as gifts for Volunteers. I did find out I do not have an art program compatible with the 2 companies I did get information from.

Faith said she has a video camera if someone is willing to work it at our events, then at our Christmas party we could view our shenanigans. I believe Carlette or David Moser volunteered to use the camera. Polly Hixson said her son could also put together a power point slide show from photographs. Penny Brandon will get her (Polly) the pictures from the Kodak website where I have been posting them for all to see.

WELCOME NEW MEMBERS:

Heaven's Gate Farm

Faith talked about doing a Pot Luck Dinner at Blowing Rock for those who are planning on camping. You will need to E-mail Linda Harbison harbisonranch@alltel.net if you want to participate. June 28th Saturday if you are just coming for the day.

Linda talked about our upcoming Leyland excursion July 12th, 10:00am. It will be a day of driving on Jim's trails and or driving in his arena.

The new form for handling $ at events was passed around.

Faith remembered to have all the members introduce themselves since we had a few new people.

NEW Business: Since Nancy was on her way back from GA Tommy talked about the HDT at Paradox next month. If you are competing you need to PRE Register by May 14th using the ADS form (Tommy passed them out to those wanting them). Schedules will be e-mailed to participants May 16th. If you are competing you need to be there by 9:00am to do the course walk and we will start at 10:30. The Judge will be Barbie Black and will be available to talk to afterwards. There will be 2 levels for dressage, Training (Test #2) and Preliminary (Test # 1) The marathon will be 3.5 miles with 5 hazards. A Volunteer sign up sheet was passed around, if you want to volunteer call or e-mail Nancy paradoxfarm@yadtel.net 336-284-6581. Volunteers need to be there by 10:00am. Cost is $35.00 for the HDT. If you only want to come drive you can BUT you CANNOT be out on the trail while the Marathon is in progress! Cost to just come & drive $15.00.

Before the meeting began Linda had us put our names in a bucket and at this point in time, drew three names for door prizes. Penny Godbey won a bag of Horse Treats, Jim Godbey won a jar of leather cleaner and Polly Hixson won a curry brush.

It was decided that September 13th we will hold a clinic, if there is something SPECIFIC you want to work on, e-mail Faith faith@salisburyblueprints.com.

We will try to find the appropriately experienced member to work with you. We had not decided on a place, Tommy offered TLC Farm. This would rotate events from him to Nancy's for Halloween in Oct, then back to Tommy's for the Turkey Trot in Nov.

Linda briefly talked about the Tanglewood Horse meeting (see previous newsletter). There will be another meeting Thursday May 1st at 7:00pm in Walnut Hall just past the red barn at Tanglewood. It was mentioned that at Southern Pines there is a Carriage parade before the steeplechase. In May of 2009 the steeple chase will return to Tanglewood, Linda ??? Is going to check into the possibility of us doing a carriage parade. Polly was nominated to check into our group receiving $ if we volunteer to work at the festival of lights (after she mentioned this possibility).

June 7th There will be a Percheron Field day at Robert Cells(?) farm in Walkertown, call Faith for more information.

Polly asked about having a banner made with the club's logo on it to display at any events we hold or attend. Larry DuPont will check into costs for us since he just had a sign done for his farm, I will e-mail him our logo.

Minutes from our last meeting were accepted as written in the January newsletter. Pat reported a balance of $1671.02 in the treasury before writing a check tonight and collecting more dues.

Our next General Meeting will be at Doug Prevett's Farm when we have our Luau August 23rd.

Just prior to adjourning Linda had us check under our chairs, Veronica DuPont had her dinner paid for by the club since she found the bow under her seat!

The meeting adjourned about 7:15pm.

WHAT'S SO HARD ABOUT DRIVEN DRESSAGE?!

By Reba Wagner

Before I drove my young pair into the dressage ring at the Paradox Farm HDT (a one day Horse Driving Trial) held on May 17th, I had already taken two runs through the dressage ring; the first by golf cart. At 8:30am before the day's competitions started, Joan Schisler picked up competitors by golf cart and carried them like royalty for a private tour of the dressage ring and the cones course. She generously shared her special tips learned the hard way from many trips through CDE courses over 38 years. Competitors were able to familiarize themselves with the course without distractions from friends or horses. I'm told not to expect this special treatment from anywhere else except at Paradox Farm.

The day was cool enough to keep the bugs away, there was not a hint of wind, and the clear blue Carolina skies made for an absolutely perfect day for driving. At the 9:00 am Whips meeting, Nancy Faller introduced Barbie Black, our judge for the day, gave instructions, assigned driver's times, explained CDE standard rules and then rewrote a few exceptions to make this first time experience for many of us much easier and less stressful, thus creating for the first time; "Paradox Farm Rules". After all this was supposed to be an informal way to try driving at a competitive CDE event.

A good showing of drivers attended including Tricia Hardy with Precious, Latina Raville, Debbie Drenten, Chris Peckham with her VSE (very small equine), Faith Bradshaw and Doug Prevette with the white Percherons, Ellie and Crescent, and Reba Wagner with her black Percherons, Lewis and Clark. While the new competitors listening to the instructions were quiet and nervous, the overall atmosphere was good humored, educational and fun.

Several Preliminary Level drivers came to the event to tune up for their upcoming competition in two weeks at the Carolina Carriage Club Horse Driving Trial on May 31 -June 1 held at the Foothills Equestrian Nature Center, Tryon, NC. Driving in the Preliminary Level were Gloria Ripperton from Pittsboro, and Boo West from Abingdon Virginia, Joan Schisler, Claudia Galup, and Susan Emmert. Tommy Cope had a Preliminary Level entry number and an assigned driving time, but we learned his priorities suddenly changed to hay when the forecast included possible rain.

My second trip through the Dressage Ring that day was as navigator for Faith Bradshaw and her experienced Percheron pair. I knew the test so well that I couldn't help myself from discreetly whispering and reminding Faith about the next movements; thinking somehow that she needed my help. She didn't need my help; but I just couldn't contain myself. I knew this pattern from studying all week. Her test was very short, maybe only about 10 minutes of driving in the ring. She drove effortlessly, and her horses responded beautifully to her light touch on the lines.

I keep reading CDE articles and noticing that even the top competitors with years of experience still consider Dressage their nemesis. One would think that Marathon was the more challenging event. And so I wondered as I drove into the ring what was the big deal? On this third trip into the dressage ring, Faith sat on my left as navigator. We were all smiles thanks to the secret code we use to bring on an instant, giant smile. Works every time, but I am sworn to secrecy on that one.

I trotted straight in towards the judge, halted and gave my best salute. The judge, seated at the end of the ring in a presentation carriage looking very grand in her large brimmed hat and driving apron, returned my salute. After that, I remember very little; my mind went completely numb, my mouth was so dry and parched I could barely speak, and all real time stopped. Even though I was shaking my nervousness directly down the lines to my horses, at least my hands seemed to remember to keep contact on the lines. I had decided long ago that I didn't like driving with a whip in my hand so this test was actually the first time I had to maneuver lines while balancing a whip. At the turns, the lines got quite messy. Note to myself: start carrying a whip during driving practices at home.

About halfway through the first 40 meter circle, Faith sensed that I was going to move on to the next movement, and whispered in my ear. She gently asked as if speaking to a psychotic patient, "Don't you want to drive a complete circle instead of just half?!" Unable to speak, I made a quiet response with my hands, and was able to make the correction.

Later I noticed the judge had only taken points off my score for noticing an "inaccurate circle".

I drove on hoping to conceal the fact that my horses and I only know two speeds, walk and trot. At some point in this test when we are asked to show the unknown gears; working walk and working trot, my deception will be unveiled. My nervous hands continued pulsing the electric sensation down through the lines and the off horse responded accordingly by jiggling much more than usual as he took direction from the driver's hands. A few more lost points for jiggling. More lost points for no working trot.

Now again at the halfway point through the second 40 meter circle, Faith anticipated my continued out of body experience and temporary loss of memory, and reminded me to complete the circle. This time she suggested "Don't you think you should take a breath; and maybe start breathing?!"

The inside horse showed his lack of experience at bending. More lost points for not bending. I guess I'll be practicing driving large circles in both directions and getting my horses to bend better at home.

After what seemed to take ten hours driving across a hot dry lifeless desert, and all the while this heavy weight pressing on my chest from being studied like an intruder, I finally finished the Dressage test. I accomplished my meager goals for my first HDT: I didn't die, didn't have an incident, I was not eliminated, I completed the test without embarrassment, and best of all, I received a written score from a judge with good constructive comments for homework to practice for my next trip into the ring. I drove home that day with a huge victory smile on my face!

The others who left with victory smiles included Tricia Hardy who won Overall best Training Level and Best in Cones. Boo West won for the Preliminary Level overall best.

A special Thanks to our hostess Nancy Faller for putting on this ambitious event, to Barbie Black our judge who was more lenient than she will be the next time she sees us, and to ALL the many volunteers who made this learning day possible. Another thanks to Alan Raville and Jeff Hardy for sharing with us their wonderful photographs of the day.

PARADOX MINI HDT MAY 17TH

by Tricia Hardy

What a beautiful day for an event, the weather was perfect, we had a great group of volunteers and with the exception of an hours delay due to a crisis at the barn everything went off with out a hitch (at least from my point of view)! Our Judge Barbie Black was very helpful with her comments when we each completed our dressage test. From the dressage arena we went on to the cones course. Gate 3 was very exciting for quite a few of the competitors. As many times as Precious has crossed over plywood at Tommy's or in my training area, she tried to refuse it as did many others. I saw Faith demolish the left side cone and Reba got the right side when she had her turn through the course! Precious took one look at the cones and literally flew through them, I had to keep her from cantering at gate 8 & 9! After the cones we went back to the trailers to have lunch, then at 2:15 we started the marathon. We had to traverse 7 km and had 5 hazards to complete. This was a very leniently run marathon, if you felt you couldn't handle a hazard or your horse wasn't able to go the distance you could pull out at any time, after all this was for fun and training purposes to get a feel for how a real HDT or CDE is run. Training level only had to do 3 gates in each hazard and Preliminary had 4 or was it 5? Precious was at least a minute and a half ahead of time through the first 3 km but by the time we hit 4 km she was on schedule, but from there on she started losing steam. When we were in the last hazard the next competitor had to wait for me to finish before she could enter, I do apologize for that., I did not expect Precious to do nearly as well as she did in the Marathon part since she was not in condition for it. RESULTS: Tricia Hardy & Precious won overall best, and best in the cones course, Boo West won for the Preliminary Level overall best.

As usual Nancy did a wonderful job hosting our first (I hope of many more) HDT's Thank you so much for allowing us to share your beautiful farm.

OUCH! I'VE BEEN BITTEN AGAIN!

by Bev Duval

I attended my first HDT at Paradox Farm on May 17 and I am hooked! I have to admit that the pre-event tour of the marathon course on golf carts made it look a little bit scary and I RIDE everywhere and never give it a second thought! I guess two wheels elevates my "pucker factor" more than I realized...

I guess all of you know this stuff, but dressage was interesting, cones proved challenging as there was a "bridge" on course which un-nerved a few participants. The marathon was after lunch and we were FIRST to go! Always scary! Anyway, what hills? What scary places? Once you get going it's too exciting to be worried, the only thing you watch is the clock which seems to move at double speed! MP (Precious) showed just how much heart she has and how much she loves her Mommy as she was clearly having as much fun as we were even though she was getting a bit tired.

I would like to thank Nancy Faller and her volunteers for a wonderful event and especially Trish and Precious for a WOW! Time. On the way home I called Pat about her old easy entry cart, and once I pay for Rudy's trainer, hay for all and the Vet summer work, I plan to buy it!

TRAIL NEWS

A meeting was held with the Trail Consultants to continue our plan to develop a "report card" for trails as well as a draft "Memorandum of Understanding" with State Parks and DHENR. An initial survey instrument has been developed to seek information on trails and trail users. Trail advocacy continues as the Friends of Hill Forrest are working with NCSU to purchase recreational use rights in the Forrest. Attending NCHC sponsored Trail Schools are part of their on-going discussions. In addition, the FOHF are discussing with us how to purchase liability insurance for their riders.

EQUINE INDUSTRY DIRECTORY

As noted in the last issue, the North Carolina Horse Council is working to put together an Equine Industry Directory that will be posted and updated on the website. Local businesses are welcome to submit their contact information to the Horse Council to be included in the Directory. The cost per listing is $12 per year for NCHC Members or $24 per year for Non-Members. Categories that will be listed in the Directory include the following:

- Apparel
- Art & Photography
- Barn Equipment/Supplies
- Boarding Facilities
- Breeding Registries, Associations & Clubs
- Consulting Services (Appraiser, Business Development, Horse Show Management)
- Equestrian Construction (Architecture, Arena Builders, Barn Builders)
- Equestrian Education
- Farriers
- Health & Veterinarian Info
- Horse Owner Services (Blanket Repair, Dead Stock Removal, Embroidery)
- Horse Transportation Services
- Real Estate
- Rescue and Adoption Organizations
- Tack & Supplies
- Training & Instruction
- Trucks & Trailers

Don't get left behind—list your business in the Directory and reach out to the horse community. The Directory will be up and running soon. Visit the website for the on-line registration form.

SPECIALTY LICENSE PLATE

The Horse Council has designed a specialty license plate that will be available for purchase, hopefully, next year. By purchasing this plate, you will be exhibiting your pride in the equine industry. The North Carolina DMV requires that we have 300 license plates pre-sold before they will produce the plate for us. The specialty plate does require action in the legislature, which we are working towards next session. Watch for more details on how you can show your support of the Horse Council and the equine industry.

EQUINE ECONOMIC IMPACT STUDY

The Equine Economic Impact Study is now under way. The Study will assess the equine industry statewide economic impact and identify opportunities for growth. The Study seeks to be all-inclusive; participation is being sought from all members of the horse community, from horse owners and stable operators to feed and equipment suppliers. The outcome of this Study is critical to all of us.

The study will include three parts:

(1) Survey of horse owners, farms, veterinarians, suppliers, and other horse-related operations and businesses. The survey will help determine the value of equine assets and the number of people involved in equine activities.

(2) Analysis of the economic impact on the State. This analysis will examine the exhibition facilities, support programs, and services offered by public and private institutions.

(3) Action plan to maximize the industry's contributions to North Carolina's economy. This will include identifying growth opportunities, recommendations for facilities, an evaluation of laws that may hinder or enhance North Carolina's attractiveness as a center of equine activities.

Based on the results of the Study, there are several possibilities that could occur:

- Preservation of land for equestrian use
- Protection of water supplies
- New public or private investments in equine facilities
- Enhanced communication between buyers and suppliers

The survey will be distributed between May 1st and July 30th, with data being analyzed during August. The Economic Impact Analysis will occur between September 1st and October 31st. Development of Policy Recommendations will be made by November 30th. The final report goes to the North Carolina General Assembly in early 2009. Everyone connected to the North Carolina horse industry is important to this effort. Please take the time to complete the survey if you are selected.

TANGLEWOOD EQUESTRIAN MEETING #2

By Tricia Hardy

May 1st Beth Cox held another meeting to discuss Equestrian ideas for the improvement of Tanglewood. Sixteen people attended this meeting with 4 representing carriage drivers, Marilyn Colvin, Penny Brandon, Bev Duval and myself, 1 trail rider Bill Messick, Ted Kaplan the commissioner, Cynthia Holbrook, a Retro Rider member, Eventing and Combined Training, Ryan Murphy & 2 others representing Polo Cross (sounded exciting), Kim King an Eventer, Mike Dowd and another lady who run the stable at Tanglewood, Damon the assistant County commissioner, Meridith Smith a hunter Jumper wants a show facility and Leslie Bergman another Eventer. We all introduced ourselves and talked about what we desired for Tanglewood and what we would be willing to do to help. Beth said from the previous meeting, the most desired and loudest need was for the trails to be improved, expanded and widened for carriage use. It looks like first and foremost the Steeplechase is going to be the first thing that is the center of concentration even though everyone at the first meeting was not really interested in that. The date for the Steeple Chase is May 9, 2009. Kim insists trails are not money makers, events like the steeple chase, polo cross events and B & C shows are. The Polo Cross people need a field 160 x 60 yards and it looks like they don't need much else to get started, Kim said get them down there to check out the field and let them organize something.

Someone questioned where the money would go from the Steeple chase or any other Equestrian Events held at Tanglewood. Mr. Kaplan said this is a VERY BIG money maker which WILL help fund all the other things we would like to see done at the park, WE will get to decide where the money goes, not the commissioners. Beth is talking about forming a non-profit Equestrian group to handle moneys raised and to distribute it to the groups who are working to improve the park. She would like people to volunteer to chair committees to work on the things that they want done, for example a trail committee, a Polo Cross committee etc. The fact that Tanglewood is very close to 2 interstates and in the center of the state make it perfect for a world class Equestrian center. It was mentioned that we could do a benefit for Victory Junction to raise money, the TDA (Tourist Development Authority) will be responsible for all marketing of any events. Beth's personal goal is to see ALL disciplines represented at Tanglewood. She has lawyers, architects and police all willing to do pro bono work. She also has someone who is going to design a web site where all the work going on at the park can be monitored.

As people who want to do things at the park WE should be willing to volunteer at the Steeple Chase to receive Money raised there. At this point I mentioned the Carriage Parade that precedes the Steeple Chase in Pinehurst and the idea was VERY well received. Any one wishing to be part of these meetings or to volunteer should E-mail Beth Cox at: bethcox22@yahoo.com.

After the meeting broke up I asked Beth if we are willing to work on the trails and get them wide enough for our carriages to drive on, ARE WE going to be allowed on them with the carriages!? She said she will make that a priority on her list of things to do. I personally am VERY willing to go out and work on the trails if we will be allowed to drive on them but I DO NOT want to chair the committee to work on the trails. Is any one in our group willing to be the chair person? Penny Brandon and I discussed the possibility co-chairing a committee to put on a Driving event at Tanglewood. This is very exciting and we can get in on the ground floor of planning what happens at Tanglewood, we need to show how much we care and get involved.

NOTE: On May 7th, Bev & I Volunteered to be co-chairs on the trails committee

MEMBER UPDATE

Those of you who remember when we bought Flash two+ years ago as a 7 year old stallion will remember how flighty he was. Having spent 5 years prior in a stall with 4 inch high pads on his front hooves, meant he was never allowed to pasture due to the risk of tearing a front shoe off. I didn't know anything about horses back then and bought him because of his pure black coat and his 16 hand high impressive looks. My neighbor stabled him and said he was a great horse and I took his word for it. I quickly learned that he spooked at anything and everything. The first 3 months under saddle riding outside of the ring was like riding a lightning bolt when he saw something that scared him. We put him in a keg shoe and spent the past two years getting him to adjust his gait and get smooth as silk. Now he is a dream to trail ride and will cross water, ride amongst our neighbors Mastiffs, ride on the road in traffic and is immune to gunfire. Hayden rides him and he has the softest mouth of any horse we have. Tapping your pinky on the reins is all it takes to turn left or right.

This week I started line driving him with a harness and hooked the traces to my chain link drag for the riding ring. We worked a couple days at that and he got used to things rubbing his side and legs.

Today we hitched him to the carriage for the first time and drove for about 30 minutes. It was uneventful and he had a relaxed head and much forward impulsion with his front legs.

I just had to share this because he has become the sweetest and most eager to please horse this past winter. I never would have believed it if I didn't see it myself and I am sure Charlie, Jim, and Santiago will agree.

That's 4 out of 4 horses that we have now trained to drive in under 4 months.....

08/06 Can you post an email for me to the driving group? I have a 23 year old lady who has CP and really wants to ride, She is completely wheelchair bound with no ambulation. I had her on a horse last night and she required 2 side walkers and had to have pillows place in front of her so she would not fall forward. We did it but it was hard for us on the ground holding her up on the horse. She is really wanting to ride and have some freedom so I put her in the pony cart that I still have and she did great.

So, long story, I need to find a very, very cheap mini horse or mule, or jenny that can pull a minicart (21inch wheels). It can be a 100 years old and ugly but able to pull a mini cart, I do not care. I want to give her a chance to participate in this club and I think she would do really well. I know some of the members of the driving club and know how nice and helpful and encouraging they would be to her. I would basically be buying this mini for her. Can you please put the word out?

Also, if she came to an event to observe would anyone let her ride in their cart for the experience? I know I am asking a lot but the only way to find out is to ask.

Thanks a bunch!!
